

PLAN YOUR AUTUMN PROJECT NOW

With worldwide supplies of many building and construction materials in short supply, we need to know what you are wanting to construct so that we can source the necessary materials. It may be that we have to look at what is available and be prepared to use what we can get. Please ring Guy Barriball or Elliot Pomeroy to discuss your requirements as soon as you can. We do have good levels of stock of many items, but when they are gone, we may have some delay in replacing.

We are seeing exceptional demand for cubicles as more farmers try to get more cattle out of loose housing into cubicles to save on straw.

We await with interest the details on ELMS (English Land Management Scheme) and its relationship with CS (Countryside Stewardship) and what is included in another round of Productivity Grants. As soon as we have details, we will let you know. We are getting some excellent feedback on the benefits being found when the new technology is used to inform management decisions. Animal genetics, nutrition and health are the main factors that the new data will help manage.

Please speak to our team if you need more interpretations of the results you are getting.

KEEP WORM RESISTANCE AT BAY

Anthelmintic resistance is one of the biggest challenges to the health and profitability of sheep and affects the entire sheep industry: a recent study found that parasitic worms has been estimated to cost the European livestock industry more than €1.8 billion per year, with drug-resistance costing at least €38 million per year in production losses and treatment costs.

In the last 10 years the number of reports of resistance to the three older classes have been increasing. Once anthelmintic resistance has developed, it is not reversible, so we need to do everything possible to slow the development of resistance.

A recent survey showed that 86% of farmers thought their wormers were working as well as they always had. The same survey showed that the majority of farmers judged this on “the look and condition of the sheep”.

Worm resistance is an invisible problem, only becoming visible when it's too late.

Georgie from Elanco will be at Harpers Farm Supplies on Wednesday 14th July to discuss and advise on any concerns around anthelmintic resistance. Please pop in and ask any questions you may have.

FECPAK

WORKING WITH LEADING EDGE TECHNOLOGIES - Making the Invisible Visible.

For over a year, we've been using clever technology by FECPAK to enable us to offer Faecal Egg Count (FEC) testing in-store. We simply process the faecal sample on site, an image of the sample is uploaded to the cloud for analysis and results are normally back with us within 20 min. This results in a quick and trustworthy service and strengthens our position around the responsible use of wormers.

For more information ask in-store.
